He was not involved in the Siesta Project until late January or early February 1971 when HOWARD J. When OSBORN contacted him as described above, OSBORN did not discuss the Siesta Project but only said the SRS would need some support people for the project. Later that same morning, an unrecalled member of the SRS briefed [ ] regarding the Siesta Project in more detail, but since [ ] was not directly involved he made no notes and at this time does not recall the specifics of the briefing. He does recall that when he was briefed he was briefed only on the background of the Siesta case and not on the projected surveillance. He also recalls that there was no discussion whatsoever of an entry. The only action he took was to contact the support personnel administratively under his [ ] in the [ ] of the WFO and orally tell them to make themselves readily available when they were contacted by the SRS concerning an ongoing project named Siesta. [ ] noted he specifically recalls he did not know that the Fairfax County, Virginia Police Department was involved in the project until he heard about it through the news media recently.

b3 per CIA
b6

On February 8, 1971 [ ] flew to Miami, Florida for a conference at the Miami Field Office (MFO) of the CIA not related to Siesta. He had been ill when he departed Washington, D.C., and on arrival the Special Agent in Charge (SAC) of the MFO of the CIA took [ ] to the SAC's personal doctor. The doctor diagnosed [ ] illness as pneumonia and wanted to place him in a Miami hospital. [ ] refused and came home to [ ] on February 9, 1971. He stayed in bed at home until about March 8, 1971 except for the period February 22, 1971 to February 26, 1971 when he visited a United States Army hospital at Fort Dix, New Jersey where his son was on the danger list with spinal meningitis. He returned to work at the CIA on or about March 8, 1971 and did not participate in any CIA work during the period of February 9, 1971 to March 8, 1971.

[redacted] a current employee of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), was interviewed at CIA Headquarters. He was interviewed in the presence of his Attorney, HENRY S. At the beginning of this interview, [redacted] and Mr. FIEDLER were apprised of the identities of the interviewing Agents and of the purpose of this interview. [redacted] was advised of his Constitutional Rights by Special Agent SMITH and he was furnished the form captioned "Interrogation; Advice of Rights", which he read and signed.

[redacted] furnished the following information voluntarily:

b3 per CIA
b6

(S) He is currently assigned to the CIA Office located in [redacted]. For several years prior to 1973, [redacted] was employed in the Washington Field Office of the CIA. While he was employed in that office, he was assigned to work for one day on a photographic and physical surveillance of a photographic studio located in Fairfax, Virginia. He could not recall the date, month, or year of this assignment, but stated that this assignment was given to him sometime prior to the Summer of 1973.

b1 per CIA
b3
b6

He was unable to recall the name or address of the photographic studio which he surveilled, and he could not recall the name of the owner of this studio.

He recalled that at the time he was given this assignment, that this matter was discussed with him by [redacted] who was at that time the Assistant Special Agent in Charge of the [redacted] of the Washington Field Office. [redacted] asked him if he could work on a Saturday as a relief worker for another employee. He worked, to the best of his recollection, from approximately 8:00 a.m. to approximately 4:00 p.m. This was the only day that he worked on this assignment and it was the only day he worked in connection with the investigation conducted by CIA in Fairfax, Virginia.

of the photographic studio.

In connection with this assignment, his duties consisted of observing the photographic studio in Fairfax, Virginia, along with another CIA employee by the name of [redacted]. He acted that day as kind of an assistant to [redacted] who was more knowledgeable with photographic equipment than he was. They were in radio contact with a CIA car on the street. His duties consisted of advising the CIA employees in the radio car when an individual entered or left the studio and to try to obtain a photograph of these individuals. People entering this studio had to do so by going up a flight of stairs. [redacted] took most of the photos since he was more knowledgeable with photographic equipment.

b3 per CIA
b6

To the best of his recollection, a man and woman operated the studio and he was told that the woman had formerly worked at CIA. He could not recall being told what the purpose of this investigation was or what hoped to be learned from this surveillance. He and [redacted] were stationed in a building on the corner of a main intersection in Fairfax, Virginia. He thought that this building was an abandoned church or library, but he was not sure of this. He stated that this building was located some distance away from the studio and that he and [redacted] were stationed on the second floor of this building.

b3 per CIA
b6

He did not know the results of this investigation and did not know that this studio was entered by CIA employees. He stated that several months ago, he read a newspaper article in a local newspaper concerning the break-in of a photographic studio by CIA employees in Fairfax, Virginia, but he did not think when he read this article that this involved the case on which he was working in Fairfax, Virginia, for the CIA.

[redacted] asserted that he did not have any intention of violating the Civil Rights of anyone when he worked on the above assignment and that in working in the above capacity, he was only an employee who was carrying out assignments which had been given to him. At the time of this assignment, he did not know that the Fairfax Police Department was being used in this investigation or was involved in it at all. He stated that he had no thought that the Fairfax Police Department would have been involved in this matter. He, therefore, did not know if any results of this investigation was furnished to the Fairfax Police Department.

He added that he had no knowledge of any plans by the CIA to enter an apartment in Washington, D. C., in connection with this investigation. [redacted] stated that on advice of his attorney, he would decline to answer any questions concerning whether or not those who took part in this CIA investigation have performed any other surreptitious entries in the United States in the past.

For ten months prior to July, 1971, he was employed in the Washington Field Office of the CIA. He was employed in the Field Investigations Unit in the Washington Field Office. Sometime during the ten months that he was employed in the Washington Field Office, he was given an assignment to work for three or four days on a photographic surveillance conducted by CIA in Fairfax, Virginia. He could not remember the day, month, or year of this assignment, but he thought it must have been in June, 1971, since he recalls that the weather was warm at that time.

This photographic surveillance consisted of photographing persons who entered a photographic studio on the main street in Fairfax, Virginia. He was not given a group briefing of this investigation, but he was given a short private briefing by either [redacted] or [redacted]. He was told that this studio was operated by a man who was suspected by CIA as being a Cuban Intelligence Agent in this country. The studio was also operated by a woman whom he was told had formerly been employed by the CIA. He could not remember the names of either of these individuals. He thought that the CIA conducted this investigation because CIA Officials were fearful that the female employee, who had been formerly employed with CIA, was steering friends of hers in CIA to this photographic studio for the purpose of getting identification photos made and that in this way the Cuban Intelligence Agent could learn the identities of CIA employees. If this were true, this Cuban individual could have learned the identities of CIA employees who were being given overseas assignments throughout the world.

He was given the assignment of working in a building on the second floor in Fairfax, Virginia, in a photographic surveillance assignment. During the days that he worked on this assignment, he worked along with another CIA employee by the name of [ ] also known as [ ]. They had radio contact with CIA cars on the outside of the building. He thought that the building in which they were located, was an abandoned building which was located on the corner of two busy intersections in Fairfax, Virginia. He was unable to recall the names of these streets. b3 per CIA b6

He recalled that the photographic studio was located some distance away from his location and that the studio was located on the second floor of the building next door to an Exxon Service Station. His assignment was to take photographs of individuals who were going up the stairs to the studio which was located on the second floor. He did not know what use was needed of the photographs which he and [ ] took. He did not know what became of the film after they completed their work for a day. It was his recollection that they left the film in the 35 millimeter cameras which they were using and that the film was later removed by another CIA employee. b3 per CIA b6

[ ] emphasized that he is not a photographic expert and that the cameras were all set up when he was given this assignment and that his duties primarily consisted of merely pressing the camera button to take a photograph. b3 per CIA b6

[ ] asserted that he was not aware of the break-in of this photographic studio by CIA at the time that he worked on this case. He was not aware of the break-in of the studio until several months ago when a newspaper article concerning this break-in appeared in a local newspaper. b3 per CIA b6

[ ] stated that he did not know that the Fairfax, Virginia, Police Department was used by CIA in this investigation and for this reason did not know what information they were furnished concerning the break-in by CIA. b3 per CIA b6

He added that he had no knowledge of any plans to enter the apartment in Washington, D. C., of the owner of this studio.

[ ] stated that on advice of his counsel, he would decline to answer the question as to whether or not those who took part in the actual surveillance and entry of this studio, have performed any other surreptitious entries in the United States in the past.

b3 per CIA
b6

[ ] concluded by stating that he would like to emphasize that in carrying out the above assignment, he did not have any intention to violate the Civil Rights of anyone connected with the studio. He added that in connection with this assignment, he was merely following orders of his superiors and that he had no part in the planning of this investigation or of the break-in of the studio.

[redacted] in the presence of his attorney<sup>b3 per CIA</sup>
 Mr. SAMUEL S. MARKOVITZ, Room 301, 7826 Eastern Avenue, <sup>b6</sup>
 Washington, D.C., was advised of the identities of the interviewing Agents, ROLAND M. COCKER and [redacted]. He was <sup>b6 per FBI</sup> then advised by Agent COCKER of the nature of the investigation <sup>b7C</sup> which involved a possible violation of the Civil Rights Act.
 He was then advised of his rights by SA COCKER and thereafter, executed the form entitled "Interrogation; Advice of Rights" which was witnessed by SA COCKER and Mr. MARKOVITZ.

He advised that he has been employed with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), since 1957 in the capacity of a Special Agent. He was so employed, in the Washington Field Office of the CIA at the time he was asked to participate in a surveillance in Fairfax, Virginia, more than three years ago.
 He could not recall the date, but advised that it occurred during the warm months because he was assigned to an upstairs room on three or four occasions where there was little or no ventilation. He further described this room as being located about one-half block from a photo studio. It was his job to determine the license numbers of vehicles and the physical descriptions of persons entering and departing from the photo studio during the normal work hours. [redacted] <sup>b3 per CIA</sup> stated that he <sup>b6</sup> did not know the purpose of the surveillance at that time, <sup>b6</sup> has since learned of the reason through newspaper accounts. He recalled that there was one other person with him on the surveillance whose name he does not desire to reveal.

[redacted] <sup>b3 per CIA</sup> advised that he did not participate in no <sup>b6</sup> was he aware of any entry into the photo studio by CIA representatives until he read it in the newspapers.

When asked whether or not those who took part in the surveillance and entry may have performed any other surreptitious entries in the United States in the past, Mr. MARKOVITZ interjected that he did not wish his client to answer that question as he did not feel that it was a proper question to ask when his client had already stated that he did not participate in the entry of the photo studio and had no knowledge of its occurrence.

he moved from this address and changed his employment at the same time. He started working at the Seven Brothers Diner, Route 123, Vienna, Virginia, as a dishwasher. He said that he had previously worked at this diner and that to the best of his recollection, he had worked at the Seven Brothers Diner off and on for about eleven years when he went to work there in about January, 1971. He also started living in the rear of this diner in a small apartment. He lived there until he moved to Herndon, Virginia.

[redacted] reported that he moved his residence and employment from Fairfax, Virginia, to Vienna, Virginia, because a detective came to his apartment and told him that he was going to move his residence and employment. He said the detective did not give him any reason for this, but the detective told him that he was going to start working and living at the Seven Brothers Diner in Vienna, Virginia, so he moved out of the Fairfax apartment where he was living at that time. He said the detective did not tell him any reason for this move. He said he heard later from several individuals whose names and identities he could not recall, that the detectives set up headquarters in the apartment in which he had been living on [redacted] Fairfax, Virginia, and that they were using this headquarters to watch something across the street. He said he did not have any additional information concerning this matter and that he learned this information only from individuals on the street. He stated that this detective did not identify himself and that he did not know the detective's name. He was not acquainted with this detective. He said that the only recollection he has of this individual is that he was a white male in his thirties, about 5 feet 6 inches tall, medium build, with black hair.

b6 per FBI
b7C

[redacted] said that the detective who came to his apartment and told him he was moving, moved him in an unmarked police car from Fairfax, Virginia, to Vienna, Virginia. He said that while this car was unmarked, it did have a radio in it.

DETAILS: The above article states that former CIA Director Richard Helms is expected to be prosecuted on a misdemeanor charge for approving a break-in of a photographic studio. We have conducted investigation in this matter which involves a Cuban refugee (b3 per CIA) who was separated from his wife and was living and working with (b6 per CIA & FBI) former CIA employee (b7C per FBI)

(b3 per CIA) left CIA and in partnership with (b6 per CIA & FBI) opened a photographic studio named "Roland Studios" in Fairfax, Virginia. On 8/4/70, CIA asked permission to investigate them and we agreed since it was considered an internal CIA matter. (b7C per FBI) was suspected of having violated CIA regulations.

At the request of the Civil Rights Division (CRD) of the Department, we conducted a limited investigation into an alleged surreptitious entry by CIA at the Roland Studios on 2/20/71. The former and present Chiefs of Police at Fairfax, Virginia, have declined to be interviewed relative to their alleged cooperation with CIA in the above alleged break-in. We have interviewed some former and numerous current CIA employees, after a long delay while CIA waited for an answer from the Department relative to availability of attorneys to represent CIA employees.

Helms Faces Charge

Prosecution Expected in Fairfax Case

By Bob Woodward
Washington Post Staff Writer

Former CIA Director Richard M. Helms is expected to be prosecuted on a misdemeanor charge for personally approving a 1971 break-in at a Fairfax City photo studio, according to informed sources.

Helms has acknowledged to Justice Department attorneys that he approved the break-in to gather information about a former employee of the CIA.

The break-in, but not Helms' role in it, was revealed last year in the Rockefeller commission report on CIA abuses.

The sources said that a civil rights misdemeanor charge is expected to be brought against Helms within the next month. The five-year statute of limitations for the break-in runs out in February.

Using a secure telephone line from CIA headquarters, Justice Department attorneys last week informed Helms in Iran, where he is U.S. ambassador, of his constitutional rights in the continuing investigation.

Though Helms spoke to Justice attorneys earlier about the break-in, he declined last week to answer their further questions.

J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, yesterday declined to comment on the case.

A separate Justice investigation into possible perjury by Helms is continuing.

Helms is in the process of obtaining a lawyer and has indicated to associates here that he wants to retain Washington attorney Edward Bennett Williams.

Williams said Friday that he has not been hired by Helms.

Helms could not be reached for comment over the weekend, but he indicated in calls to friends here last week that he is innocent of any criminal intent.

In a call last week to a senior White House official, Helms sought information about the break-in case and

Helms Is Expected To Be Prosecuted

HELMS, From A1

painted a gloomy picture of his future. One source said Helms indicated he would be charged in the break-in case, but would fight it in court.

Helms maintains that under the law he was empowered as CIA director to act to protect security.

The break-in was at a photo studio run by Deborah Fitzgerald, the former CIA employee, and Orlando Nunez, a former middle level official in the Castro government in Cuba.

Both were under CIA surveillance for some time after Fitzgerald, while working in the records division of the CIA, tried to find out what information the CIA had in its files about Nunez. Fitzgerald and Nunez have since married.

The CIA did not turn up any evidence of a security violation in its investigation.

According to the sources, the break-in was conducted as a final effort to close the investigation of Fitzgerald and Nunez. The sources said that there was no crisis or compelling need to resort to illegal entry.

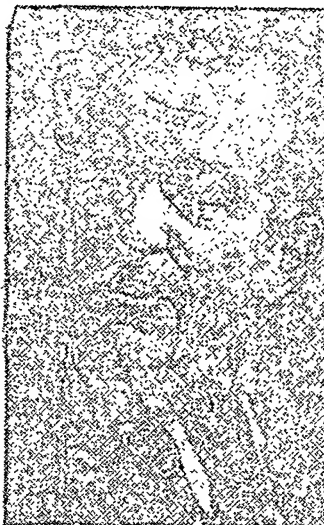

The break-in was conducted during the early morning hours of Feb. 19, 1971, half a day after Helms gave his approval for the break-in, according to the sources.

Three Fairfax City policemen apparently cooperated by ensuring that no one interrupted the CIA break-in team, which entered the now-defunct Roland Studio on the second floor of 10419 Main St. in Fairfax City.

A decision whether to prosecute Helms for perjury is scheduled to be made within 30 to 45 days, according to the sources.

The perjury investigation focuses on Helms' sworn testimony denying a CIA role in domestic surveillance and in supplying covert support to political factions in Chile.

The sources indicated that a stumbling block for the Justice Department investigators is the unwillingness of the Senate intelligence committee, chaired by Sen. Frank Church (Idaho), to give the department all its material relating to Helms.

It is known that Church is waiting to establish an overall policy on providing material from his committee's investigation to the executive branch and does not want to establish a precedent that could alarm his probe's confidential sources.

[redacted] was not a social acquaintance or friend of [redacted] and she saw [redacted] scb3 per CIA away from work only on one occasion. She recalled that b6 per CIA & FBI time, exact date not recalled, she and [redacted] were b7C per FBI of a group of CIA employees who stopped for a drink one night after work. She never had any social contact with [redacted] except for this one instance. She did not know where [redacted] lived and while [redacted] was employed with the CIA, [redacted] had never heard of the Roland Studios or of [redacted]. She did not know who any of [redacted] boy friends were. She has never been in any contact in any way with [redacted] since [redacted] left her employment with CIA. [redacted] stated that it was an error for any one to say that she was a more than casual acquaintance of [redacted].

About one year after [redacted] left, another female employee of the CIA got married, and she went to Roland Studios to have her wedding pictures taken. This employee was [redacted] whose married name is [redacted] and she is no longer employed by CIA. Mr. JOHN W. COFFEY, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] telephone number [REDACTED] was interviewed in his residence. At the beginning of this interview he was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and of the purpose of this interview. b3 per CIA b6

Mr. COFFEY furnished the following information:

He is unemployed at the present time and was formerly employed by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) [REDACTED]

(S) [REDACTED] until December 31, 1974. At the time of his retirement he was assigned in [REDACTED] and after his retirement he [REDACTED]

(S) [REDACTED] He was Assistant Deputy Director for Support from 1967 until December, 1970. He was promoted to Deputy Director of Support and served in that capacity from January 1971 until March, 1973. He explained that there are four major divisions of the CIA and that one of these divisions is the Support Division. Instead of being called a division each of these divisions is called a Directorate. Within the Support Directorate were [REDACTED] divisions which were called offices. One of the offices in his directorate was the Office of Security. While he was employed as Deputy Director of Support the Head of the Office of Security was Mr. HOWARD OSBORN. b1 per CIA b3 b6

From 1967 until 1970, Mr. ROBERT BANNERMAN was the Deputy Director of Support and COFFEY was his Assistant. RICHARD HELMS at that time was the Director of CIA and he thought that Mr. HELMS' top assistant was General WALTERS and that a Colonel WHITE was the Number Three man in the CIA.

Mr. COFFEY explained that while CIA had a very formal structure and table of organization the actual day to day functioning of CIA was done on an informal basis. It was not unusual for Mr. RICHARD HELMS, the Director, or Colonel WHITE to bypass Deputy Directors and Assistant Deputy Directors and to deal directly with individuals under their supervision. There were several incidents where Mr. HELMS talked directly with HOWARD OSBORN who was the Head of Security in which

Mr. COFFEY was not apprised of what was going on or was given very scant information about the particular case involved. He emphasized that there were some incidents involving security in which Mr. HELMS would deal directly with the case agent involved.

He has read in recent months the articles appearing in local newspapers concerning the investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) of the alleged break-in by CIA and Fairfax City, Virginia, Police Officers of a photographic studio in Fairfax City, Virginia. He has learned recently that the code name for this CIA investigation is supposed to be "SIESTA".

Until recently he had never heard the code name "SIESTA" and he was not apprised of it in 1970 and 1971. When he was serving as Assistant Deputy Director of Support, he was not familiar with the Fairfax City investigation by CIA at all. He never saw any memoranda or reports concerning this investigation. When he was promoted in January, 1971, to Deputy Director of Support HOWARD OSBORN did not brief him on this case which was under investigation at that time.

He declared that to the best of his recollection, without considering the recent newspaper publicity, after he became Deputy Director of Support, HOWARD OSBORN spoke to him briefly in his (COFFEY's) office about this investigation by CIA. He emphasized that this was a very cursory discussion with OSBORN and that OSBORN did not furnish him with any of the details of this investigation. It was his recollection that this investigation revolved around a familiar employee of CIA and a contact of hers on the outside of CIA who was a foreigner and who operated a business. He thought he learned at that time that the Fairfax City Police were cooperating with the CIA. OSBORN indicated to COFFEY that he was in touch with the Director of the CIA, RICHARD HELMS concerning this matter.

Mr. COFFEY said that because of the amount of time that has elapsed since 1971, that he is unable to recall the specifics of the conversations with OSBORN. He thought that OSBORN could possibly have mentioned this case to him twice but he was not sure of this. OSBORN never furnished him much information about this matter.

~~SECRET~~

Mr. COFFEY was sure that he did not know whether or not the CIA and local police had broken into the business establishment which they were investigating. He learned of this allegation subsequently in newspaper publicity. He said the names [ ] and [ ] did not mean anything to him until he saw their names in the newspaper and that OSBORN never mentioned their names to him. b3 per CIA b6 per CIA & FBI b7C per FBI

Mr. COFFEY further explained that cases involving a possible leak of CIA information through CIA personnel were handled in a very discreet manner within the CIA and that HOWARD OSBORN would have an investigation of this type handled and would then relay the information directly to Mr. HELMS. This practice was followed since Mr. HELMS was personally interested in matters of this type and since he wanted as few people as possible within the CIA to be aware of this type of information.

Mr. COFFEY reported that when he was promoted to the position of Deputy Director for Support in January, 1971, Mr. ROBERT S. WATTLES was promoted from the Office of Personnel to the position of Assistant Deputy Director for Support.

Mr. ROBERT S. WATTLES, [REDACTED] was interviewed in his residence. At the beginning of this interview he was apprised of the identity of the interview agents and of the purpose of this interview. b3 per CIA b6

Mr. WATTLES furnished the following information:

He is currently retired from the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) having been retired in December, 1973. He was employed by the CIA since [REDACTED] From 1968, to 1971, he was employed as Director of Personnel in the Directorate for Support. In January, 1971, he was promoted to the position of Deputy Director for Support and he served in that capacity until his retirement. While serving as Deputy Director for Support, he worked under the supervision of Mr. JOHN W. COFFEY. b3 per CIA b6

During the years 1971, to 1973, Mr. HOWARD OSBORN was the Director of Security for the CIA.

While he was serving as Deputy Director for Support, to the best of his recollection, Mr. HOWARD OSBORN told him on one occasion of an investigation which was either being conducted at that time or it had been conducted by the CIA in Fairfax City, Virginia. OSBORN furnished him very little information about this matter. He thought that OSBORN furnished him this information only because he (WATTLES) was the Deputy Director for Support and he assumed that OSBORN felt that he should be aware of this matter. He has a very hazy recollection of this information he received at that time and he has learned much more about this investigation from recent newspaper publicity. To the best of his recollection he was only told that this matter was under investigation and he was not furnished the names of the individuals involved. He thought that the investigation concerned a female CIA employee and a businessman in Fairfax City, Virginia with a Spanish name who was not a United States citizen. He thought he knew at that time but he was not sure of this, that the business establishment was a photographic studio but he was not told the name of the studio.

Mr. WATTLES emphasized that while he was not aware of the details of investigation, he was in sympathy to the investigation because of the large amount and depth of unrest in the United States at that time. It was his opinion that an agent for a foreign country who operated a photographic studio would be an excellent position to obtain CIA information for the foreign country if the agent could compromise a CIA employee. He stated for this reason it made sense to him at that time and at the present time for the CIA to conduct this investigation. He did not know whether or not a code word had been assigned to this investigation by the CIA and if a code name was assigned at that time he was not aware of it.

He explained that to the best of his knowledge and recollection this investigation by the CIA was conducted under the supervision of Mr. HOWARD OSBORN, the Director of Security and that in matters of this type, OSBORN reported directly to Mr. RICHARD HELMS, the Director of the CIA. He pointed out that this was not an unusual situation and that Mr. HELMS made it a practice of supervising investigations of this nature personally. He pointed out that OSBORN would usually report directly to Mr. HELMS and bypass both of his superiors JOHN W. COFFEY and himself. He explained further that HELMS pursued this practice because of his interest in security leaks and that he also followed this practice in dealing with the Director of Finance because of the confidential nature of some of CIA's finances.

Mr. WATTLES said he thought, but was not aware, that the Fairfax City Police were used in this investigation by the CIA. He assumed, however, that the Fairfax City Police were used because it would have been natural for the CIA to use the local police. He said he had no first hand knowledge that a breakin was conducted by the CIA of this photographic studio but he did not doubt that a breakin did occur. He tried to recall when he first was made aware of this investigation by HOWARD OSBORN and he could not specifically recall the date. He thought it was during the year 1972, but he was not sure of this.
